My post-marriage life is going great with my husband and my In law's, his family is very nice and everyone's loving and accepting. We live in a joint family system and he has a big family. Everyone's humble and kind and it's a blessing as there is always a sense of moral support. My husband is very caring and fun-loving himself .always there for me and very loving. We lived together for a week and a few really beautiful days but, he had to leave Pakistan because of his internship program we spent as much time as we could together. So We went to dinners and fun places to enjoy and make memories. We took pictures and ate food together making beautiful memories that I'll forever cherish

We couldn't plan for a honeymoon because of his internship and we also had very little time and e had to finish the paperwork for immigration too.

So we did our work together and enjoyed ourselves side by side, we'll plan our honeymoon together sometime in future when I'm in Canada. I love my husband very much and I can't wait to make more amazing memories with him. looking forward to a beautiful future together.
